LOCATION LEGEND

You are quoting Shakespeare

If you cannot understand my argument, and declare, "It's Greek to me,"
you are quoting Shakespeare;
if you claim to be more sinned against than sinning,
you are quoting Shakespeare;
if you recall your salad days,
you are quoting Shakespeare;

if you act more in sorrow than in anger; if your wish is father to the thought; if your lost property has vanished into thin air,

you are quoting Shakespeare;

if you have ever refused to budge an inch or suffered from green-eyed jealousy; if you have played fast and loose; if you have been tongue-tied, a tower of strength, hoodwinked or in a pickle; if you have knitted your brows, made a virtue of necessity, insisted on fair play, slept not one wink, stood on ceremony, danced attendance (on your lord and master), laughed yourself into stitches, had short shrift, cold comfort or too much of a good thing; if you have seen better days or lived in a fool's paradise—why, be that as it may,

the more fool you, for it is a foregone conclusion that you are (as good luck would have it) quoting Shakespeare;

if you think it is early days and clear out bag and baggage; if you think it is high time and that that is the long and short of it; if you believe that the game is up and that truth will win out even if it involves your own flesh and blood; if you lie low till the crack of doom because you suspect foul play; if you have your teeth set on edge (at one fell swoop) without rhyme or reason, then—to give the devil his due—if the truth were known (for surely you have a tongue in your head)

you are quoting Shakespeare;

even if you bid me good riddance and send me packing; if you wish I were dead as a door-nail; if you think I am an eyesore, a laughing stock, the devil incarnate, a stony-hearted villain, bloody-minded or a blinking idiot, then—by Jove! O Lord! Tut tut! For goodness' sake! What the dickens! But me no buts! — it is all one to me, for you are quoting Shakespeare.

Namaste - Child Of The Mountain Sky

I have but little,
I dress in rags.
I'm often cold,
I never cry.

My hair turns red, my belly swells,
I'm always hungry, protein starved,
Imagine how one small egg,
Could make a difference to me today.

I long for school,
But where, how and when?
Perhaps one day ...
I hope not too late for me.

My home, one vast mountain range.
From lush rice paddies,
Terraced in soft velvet green,
To snow streaked alpine pastures,
'Neath glacier shrouded crags.

From gardens much like Eden,
To barren snow strewn slopes above,
I've lived in this place for centuries untold.
From whence I came and how or why,
Who knows? Not I.

Yet within this small pulsing, hidden heart
And restless, seeking, eager mind,
Resides the Spirit of this far off land,
Namaste, Oh child divine.

Namaste: "I bow to the Spirit within you"
