

Will Furman's World, an Abstract Angle on Community

Over the past weeks we have been treated to an exhibition of the work of Will Furman, a resident of Carmel Valley Manor.

Will is a professional photographer who has recently been honored by having his photographs placed in the California Central Library system in Sacramento. His photographic illustrations of the book about an old Western town, Bodie, have received accolades from many sources. The pictures that he has taken of the birds in the coastal reaches of Sanibel and Captiva Islands are outstanding, worthy of National Geographic recognition.

In this seemingly triple show, Will offers his viewpoints with regard to environment, the open sea air of the birds, the town center of the old West, and the slick glitz of the plate glass facades of shops and cafes on the city streets. We even see the monstrous trucks that keep business going. The rural images reveal evidence of human habitation with no people happily there. They bring with them a heavy dose of nostalgia. His work on the current scene shows us people living in the urban environment, aware of its advantages. Will explains his techniques of production, and we know he is playing with reality, the angles of view and our perception of the glassy reflection in the mind's eye. He lets us determine what it is all about. A work of abstraction! Keep your eye on Will's work and watch for future developments. They're coming.

ASR

Can you find a favorite in the Furman photos? I love looking through the windows of the old truck and seeing yesterdays go by! The dress model, stark and sophisticated, standing lonely in the middle of nowhere as troops of people move away, resonates with me. What do you see? We, in the Manor should all be grateful to live in a planned, just for us, community.

YOUR HELP IS NEEDED!

During the past year, we residents have been privileged to participate in a vast variety of activities and programs for our entertainment, pleasure, education, and religious support (especially in Hillcrest and the Health Center). There is not a single resident who, in some way, does not benefit from these programs and activities supported by the Council Budget. In June of each year the Council requests that Manor residents contribute to the cost of running our committees and activities.

The Council budget for 2018 is $65,402. This covers expenditures for the current year including our 55th Manor Anniversary Celebration in October. With our carryover of $6,402 from 2017, and the generous support from the R.O.S.E., projected to be $37,000 this year, the Council recommends a contribution of $120 per resident ($10.00/month) to support the Council's budget and activities. Every resident is encouraged to participate. Our average donation request over the last seven years has been $139 (range $75-$180). We anticipate that some residents may not be able to provide full support, and we encourage those who can to contribute more.

It has been often said that we, the Carmel Valley Manor family, are unique among residential care facilities because of our self-directed programs of activities, activities which are created for areas of mutual interest, conducted by resident participation, and financed by resident contributions. Your contribution will ensure continuation of this fine tradition! A pledge form will be in your mail box. We appreciate your support.

Jack Enbom, Council President

A GOOD TIME WAS HAD BY ALL!!!!

WILL AND JULIE OBERING

A queen rules in the House of Obering. Well, not really rules, but she is striking! She is ensconced in her very own sarcophagus against the wall to watch what goes on in the living room of 19B. This Egyptian beauty is encased in gold, has her own jewelry, and decorations of butterflies, and many of the symbols of the ancient empire. Her owners, Julie and Will Obering, are real art enthusiasts and acquired this lady from the Art Museum In Denver.

One can see their love of art when walking into their home. There is a sculpture of John Beck's from Bozeman, Montana, a large elegantly-framed photo of frolicking young ladies, and in the kitchen is a painting of a huge buffalo. In a beautiful glass and wood cabinet they have displayed Spanish Colonial Silver artifacts and Madonna Colonial Silver artifacts. These are the few works of art that they have brought from their home in Jackson Hole.

Julie and Will took possession of 19B in July, 2017 and moved enough furniture from their home in Wyoming to be able to spend time here off and on. But Will had a stroke in January, this year, while at home in Jackson Hole. After three months of rehabilitation in Salt Lake City and Denver, he was well enough to go home or move here, and they chose to come here. Will is still working with a speech therapist, and Julie is taking care of the things one must do when we all "scale down" and move. They will keep their home in the Rockies and plan to go there sometime this summer.

Julie was born in Wisconsin, (her father was in the military but was from Palo Alto), and she grew up here in Carmel Valley where she still has her family home on Scarlett Rd. She went to Santa Catalina and the University of Denver where she got her BA in International Relations, then went on to get her Law Degree.

Will was born and grew up in Oklahoma and received his degree in Geology from the University of Oklahoma. He went to work for Texaco in Denver in the Oil and Gas Exploration Division. It was there that he met Julie, who was introduced by a mutual friend. They have been married 44 years and lived in Denver 25 of those years. They have a son who lives in Denver and a daughter who lives in Jackson Hole and, happily, four grandchildren.

Their favorite hobby is fly fishing, and they traveled to many far away places to pursue this sport and bird hunting and, on occasion, would go with their friends, Jan and Larry Finch. For the time being fly fishing must wait while Will gets his strength back. For now, walking and working are taking the place of their favorite hobbies.

We wish, for Will, a complete recovery and, for them both, a happy and contented life here at Carmel Valley Manor. We are glad they are here.
